The Jessup Grain Drill!

Improved and Made by

R. J. RICHARDSON.

THE satisfaction which the Richardson Drill gave in 1862 has induced me to Make Double the Number for 1863.

The principle of the Drill is all that was at first claimed for it. The experience of 1862 enables me to make them just

Adapted to the Peculiarities of this Soil, which is very difficult to till.

More than three hundred of these drills were used in this vicinity last spring, and it is universally conceded that the Richardson Drill is PERFECTLY ACCURATE

in the quantity of Seed Sown per Acre, and that it is equally adapted to any quantity desired. It is also conceded that the Richardson Drill is the Lightest Draft and the Easiest for the Team of any Drill yet introduced.

The drills of this year are easily changed from double to single rank. The points are longer, sharper and heavier than those of 1862, which render them better adapted to the hard and heavy soil of early fall plowing.

Notwithstanding the Large Advance on Material

we have concluded to offer our drills at the SAME PRICE

as in 1862, which is as follows: 9 tooth $70; 10 tooth, $75; 12 tooth, $80; 14 tooth, $85; 16 tooth, $90.

To those who know the Richardson Drill it is needless to say anything. Of those who do not know them, we would ask an examination, and refer to any one who has used them. Our drills are now

READY FOR EXHIBITION.

They are made at the well known

Rock River Iron Works

of Harris, Gull, and Taylor. The character of their work is well known. I would like everybody to examine these drills.

For those who desire to purchase drills, I would say that

I guarantee them

Working to the Entire Satisfaction of the purchaser, or no sale.

The Corn Planter Attachment

Correspondence of the Daily Gazette. From the Twenty-second Regiment. On Board Transport "CONSTITUTION," DUTY, Feb. 6, 1863. Messrs. Editors:—The division, numbering eight regiments of infantry, of which we count one, and two batteries, all commanded by Gen. Baird, reached Louisville last Friday, and proceeded at once to embark on the fleet of transports which were lying at the levee awaiting our arrival. Sunday afternoon our regiment went on board of two boats, and late on Monday we started down the river, in total ignorance as to our destination, though conjectures were made that either Nashville or Vicksburg would be our stopping place. We traveled slowly, and on Wednesday morning early we ran into the mouth of the Cumberland river and started up that stream, when the opinion suddenly became unanimous that we were bound to Nashville to reinforce Rosecrans. Guerrillas have a bad habit of firing at boats loaded with soldiers, and picking off pilots; consequently plates of iron were at once suspended on all sides of the "pilot house," calculated to turn aside and render harmless any bullets rebel stragglers might see fit to fire at the pilots.

On reaching this village, we found it all excitement. Tuesday, the day before we came here, the town was attacked by a force of over 5,000 rebels under command of Forrest, Wheeler, and other prominent seceders. The 83d Illinois, only seven hundred strong, occupied the place, and held the enemy in check, repulsing him at every point of attack, until the timely arrival of the gunboats acting as convoys to the fleet of transport vessels caused the "rebels" to skedaddle, being first well shelled by the same gunboats.

The 13th Wisconsin were at Fort Henry, heard the cannonading, and at once set out for this place, but on account of being obliged to move slowly and cautiously, skirmishing meantime, did not arrive there until two hours after the fight was over. Many of them came on the boat to see us, and it did us good to see so many good and true soldiers from the old "Badger state."

Those who wished went ashore this afternoon to visit the battle field. There is hardly a dwelling in the village but bears the marks of the recent conflict, being either riddled by cannon shot or pierced by bullets. Burial parties are still at work, although but few of the dead now remain unburied.

Fort Donelson lies about a mile and a half from here, on the left bank of the river, going down. No troops are stationed there, no guns are mounted there; the place looks desolate and gloomy, and one can hardly realize that it has been the scene of such a terrible battle as was fought there.

The 13th started this afternoon on their return to Fort Henry. Previous to their departure they were marched down to our boat and cheered our regiment heartily. To the compliment we responded in the same manner. It is snowing "right smart," and they will undoubtedly have a disagreeable march.

The fleet, including gunboats, are still here, apparently waiting further orders before moving on. Letters should be directed "via Louisville—to follow the regiment," in order to reach us. We have had no mail since Sunday, and hardly know when to expect another. We hope soon to hear from friends at home.

Wanted at Nashville. THE PROPOSED PEACE CONVENTION.—The Nashville Union says the Vallandigham, the Woolfs, the Cox's, and that ilk, that the loyal East Tennesseans would be glad to meet them at their proposed peace convention in Nashville, and this adds:

Let them all come, we have several regiments of loyal East Tennesseans here just now, that would be glad to meet such an assembly, as would the Union men of Tennessee.

These loyal East Tennesseans who have been driven from their homes, whose wives and children, left behind, have been insulted, their property pillaged, their farms robbed, their homes desolated, their friends sent off to southern prisons, where they now languish and die, tied upon rotten pork. Many of their companions died while wandering through the mountains going into Kentucky; many hung upon railroad lines to be seen by passengers, themselves prostrated and exiled, never again to see their mountain homes, save by the success of the federal arms, or some such ignominious contrivance as this convention would effect—terms that no man who had one particle of self-respect could accept. Rather than such terms, better far would be a social and political hell. Come on, gentlemen; these men would be in good mood to entertain you at the capital of the state. Now, after a long absence, they have been enabled to get this near home. You are fortunate in the selection of Nashville as a suitable place at which to hold this convention.

The graves of Jackson and Polk being here, doubtless aided you greatly in selecting this place, and then, too, we have a large number of Union refugees from various counties in Tennessee, men who have witnessed conscription, who have been tried before vigilance committees, whose property has been the prey of marauding cavalry, whose houses have had guards placed over them to see that women did not communicate with the husband or son, who had fled to the woods to avoid death or a southern prison. Many of these men have been robbed, too, of their money and watches, when they ventured beyond the federal pickets to catch a glimpse of their homes or receive a message from their wives and daughters, the last threat, or the destination to which the future of their families would be determined. These would constitute an audience worthy of the grandest orator among you.

Such a convention would be more memorable in the history of the nation than any assemblage of traitors that ever met at Nashville or elsewhere, and we doubt not great good would come of it.

"How long, oh Catalina, will you abuse our patience? To what end will your ungovernable wrath not drive us?"

A YOUNG MAN TAKES THE PLACE OF A DRAFTED BROTHER.—A very creditable act has come to our knowledge, in the case of a young Hollander named Peter M. Van Dergragt, twenty-one years of age, who has been in this country fifteen years, speaks our language quite well, and whose parents live in Genoa, Italy, and whose daughter, Shoboyan county, has a married brother named Cornelius M., who was drafted, and Peter says that rather than see him go, he leaves his family to suffer, perhaps, and particularly as he felt that he had as much love as his adopted country as any one who had fought and died for it, he thought he would volunteer in his brother's place.

He accordingly enlisted in the 27th regiment, stationed in Milwaukee, but has just succeeded in getting transferred to the regular service, under Captain Meyer. He is a spunky little fellow, will make a good soldier, and his brother and family doubtless feel that they can never be too grateful to him for his humanity towards them, aside from the fact that he is a brother.—His cousin.

BY TELEGRAPH. REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE. BY WIRELESS STATE TELEGRAPH LINE. Official Union Passenger Depot. Last Night's Report. COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 10, 1863. The following letter from General Rosecrans in response to the resolutions of the general assembly was sent in by Governor Tod to-day.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT FROM GEN. ROSECRANS. HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 10, 1863. To the Honorable the General Assembly of the State of Ohio. The resolution of thanks passed by your honorable body, to the army of the Cumberland, its commanding general and his staff, has been duly received and published to the troops of this command. On behalf of all, I return your heartfelt thanks. This is indeed a war for the maintenance of the constitution and the laws—way for national existence—against those who have despised our honest friendship, deceived our just hopes, and driven us to defend our country and our homes. By soul and willful slanders on our motives and intentions, persistently repeated, they have arrayed against us our own fellow citizens, bound to us by the triple ties of consanguinity, geographical position, and commercial interest. Let no man among us be base enough to forget this, or fool enough to trust an oligarchy of traitors to their friends, to civil liberty and human freedom. Voluntary exiles from home and friends, for the defense and safety of all, we long for the time when gentle peace shall again spread her wings over our land; but we know no such blessing is possible while the unjust and arbitrary power of the rebel leaders continues to threaten us. Crafty as the fox, cruel as the tiger, they cry "peace," while they are plotting to overthrow us. They propose to fight us because they said they could whip us five to one; and now, when driven back, they whine out "no invasion," and promise us of the west permission to navigate the Mississippi river, if we will be "good boys," and do as they bid us. Whenever they have the power, they drive before them into their ranks the southern people, and they would also drive us. Trust them not. Were they able, they would invade and destroy us without mercy. Absolutely assured of these things, I am amazed that any one could think of "peace on any terms." He who entertains the sentiment is fit only to be a slave; he who utters it at this time, moreover, is a traitor to his country, who deserves the scorn and contempt of all honorable men. When the power of the unscrupulous rebel leaders is removed, and the people are free to consider and act for their own interests which are common with ours under this government, there will be no great difficulty in fratricide. Our men, our tactics and our social life there are fewer differences than between those of the people of the northern and southern provinces of England or Ireland. Hoping the time may speedily come when the power of the perfidious and cruel tyrant of this rebellion having been overthrown, a peace may be laid on the broad foundation of national unity and equal justice to all, under the constitution and laws. I remain your fellow citizen, W. S. ROSECRANS, Maj. Gen.
